- During the month of January, Sedgwick County Developmental Disability Organization (SCDDO) Quality Assurance Staff completed 5 day and 9 residential program visits.
- The first quarter meeting of the Sedgwick County Community Council was held January 25th. Ryan Farley with Hinkle Law Firm presented on guardianship. Mr. Farley provided a nice overview of what guardianship is, how it differs from conservatorship and the limits on guardians.
- Two new affiliates were added to the SCDDO provider network in January. Restoration Family Services and KVC Behavioral Healthcare are the new affiliates. Both agencies are licensed child placing agencies and will provide children's residential supports. Restoration Family Services is also affiliated to provide overnight respite.
- SCDDO hosted a recognition event January 25th for NADD trainers. The trainers are volunteers qualified to teach the NADD Mental Health Approaches to Intellectual/Developmental Disabilities curriculum. This training is a key component of SCDDO's effort to improve the availability of behavioral health care to individuals with Intellectual/developmental disabilities (IDD). With the trainings scheduled for February, there will be over 400 individuals in Sedgwick County trained to better work with individuals with co-occurring needs.
- Wichita State University's Community Engagement Institute: Center for Applied Research & Evaluation presented their findings on the experience of Direct Support Professionals and Targeted Case Managers with trauma & traumatic stress. The study found that while the population had higher than average compassion satisfaction scores they also expressed higher than average burnout and secondary traumatic stress. What this means is that while we have an IDD system workforce that loves their work, it is critically important to recognize and understand that these staff are vulnerable and potentially dealing with their own trauma presenting a powerful opportunity to support human resources in affiliate network organizations.
