UPDATE: Ongoing - Sedgwick County has been involved with Georgetown University's Center for Juvenile Justice Reform since 2010. Two groups completed capstone projects aimed at improving outcomes for youth involved in multiple systems of care. In 2015, Sedgwick County became a pilot site for the Crossover Youth Practice Model (CYPM). <https://cjjr.georgetown.edu/our-work/crossover-youth-practice-model/participating-jurisdictions/> Kansas has engaged Georgetown University for statewide implementation in two sites (Shawnee and Montgomery Counties). On the state level, staff members at the Kansas Department of Corrections (KDOC), Office of Judicial Administration (OJA) and the Department for Children and Families (DCF) staff the project in coordination with statewide and local oversight boards. Sedgwick County continues to refine the CYPM to meet the changing system players in the juvenile justice/child welfare systems and the changes made by SB 367. The CYPM committee meets regularly to update protocols. DCF has a staff member housed at JIAC to assist with the CYPM implementation and data collection.
