Wichita, Kansas – Sedgwick County Judge Ben Burgess sentenced Travis Johnson, 24 of Wichita, to 698 months in prison in connection with the shooting death of JaRon Sanders last year. In the early morning hours of February 21, Johnson and Sanders were arguing in the street in front of Sanders’ home in the 600 block of N. Erie. Johnson shot Sanders in the head.

Johnson was found guilty January 3rd of second degree murder and criminal possession of a firearm in the Sanders homicide along with a 2014 probation violation and an offender registration violation in 2015. Judge Burgess sentenced Johnson last Friday.
