Subject:

I shouldn't have to hear about this issue from a journalist when SCGO was notified in Feb

Comment:

A data breach of SCGO poll worker personal information is alarming, but more so is the fact that no one from SCGO or the company has bothered to contact poll workers to inform them of the data breach. The public has the right to know and what steps are being taken to address this issue. Which workers were impacted, and how they can be assisted? The public also needs to know from all of you that this system has nothing to do with ballots, vote counts, or any part of the election process. As egregious as this may be, it is not excuse for others to claim fraud or tampering and pass restrictive voter laws. It was challenging enough to get poll workers last year, let's get this solved and instill some confidence into our elections.
