- Aging and the SCDDO have been the Department of Aging & Disabilities since July but hadn't had an opportunity to all get together. January 19th the combined Department came together to view UnSeen a documentary on the struggles of family caregivers for individuals with intellectual/developmental disabilities (IDD). Department Director, Annette Graham, hosted a discussion after the film.
- Tami Allen with Families Together presented on Charting the LifeCourse at the January Developmental Disabilities Community Council. Charting the LifeCourse is a framework developed to help individuals and families of all abilities and at any age or stage of life develop a vision for a good life. Basically it is a tool to assist individuals with disabilities to create a vision for their future and plot a course to a full, meaningful life.
